FRED L. CRAYCROFT ROBBED AND WOUNDED BY SPANIARDS.

Nineteen Noncombatant Cubans, In cluding Four Women, Butchered by the Same Soldiers.

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 9.-Advices from Havana, by the steamer Olivette, give details of an outrage on an American citizen and the butchery of nineteen noncombatant Cubans, including four women, by Spanish soldiers. The massacre occurred last Thursday near the town of San Jose de las Layas, Havana province. A detachment of Spanish soldiers surprised six insurgents, who, however, made their es-& Warner Company, Columbus, O.; Ohio Steel Company, Youngstown, O.; Otis Steel Company, Cleveland; Union Steel Company, Hey began to raid the houses in the neighborhood alleging their inhabitants were in borhood, alleging their inhabitants were in sympathy with the rebels. The Spaniards went to the sugar estate of Frederick L. diers entered the house and two of them seized Mrs. Craycroft and assaulted her. The husband, in desperation, rushed to his wife's aid, but was struck down by a sword in the hands of an officer. Two terrible gashes were made in his back and his right arm nearly severed. The Spanlards looted the house, took $850 in cash and then raided other houses on the estate. They burned eight buildings and shot and killed nineteen inmates, four of whom were women. Craycroft, when he recovered sufficiently, wrote to Vice Consul Springer, at Havana. It is understood that the vice Secretary Olney.

The Spanish authorities in Havana are greatly disturbed because several thousand nsurgents from Gomez's army have entered Matanzas province. So serious does Weyler consider the situation that he has withdrawn six thousand troops rom Pinar del Rio and dispatched them into Matanzas to stay the advance. During the siege and subsequent capture of Guayamara City by the insurgents the Spaniards lost 250 killed and wounded. Three hundred and seventy Spaniards surrendered to Calixto Garcia, commanding the besieging force. Garcia sent word to General Castellanos that they would be exchanged for Cubans Weyler Takes the Field.

HAVANA, Nov. 9.-Captain General Weyler has taken the field in person against the insurgents under Antonio Maceo in the province of Pinar del Rio and reliable news, received from the front, indicates the Spanish columns are approaching close to the enemy. Gen. Weyler left Havana on board the cruiser Legazpy half an hour after midnight, his destination being the port of Mariela, province of Pinar del Rio. From Mariel, it is understood, the Captain General will go southward by the highway to the town of Artemise and along the line of the trocha. Strong reinforcements are being embarked to support the Captain General in the operations now in rogress against the insurgents. The Marquis De Ahumade is in charge of the Captain General's office here, with Colonel Ramon Dominguez as his chief of staff. Near Jaguey la Grande an electrical battery and fifty-six dynamite cartridges have been found buried. In the mountains of Ciego de Avilla, province of Santa Clara, there has been an increase of pernicious fever and yellow fever, principally the latter, and many natives have been attacked. Captain General Weyler left Mariel with a column of 6,000 infantry, 400 cavalry and six cannon. The first brigade, under Col. Mernandez Velasco and under General Aguilar, with the column of Col. Pintos from the plantation of Canas in the rear have left the trocha and gone in the direction of the monutains of Pinar del Rio. General Weyler was mounted on a fine

The Three Friends Siezed. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9 .- The Three Friends, which was seized at the mouth of the river on Saturday night by the revenue cutter Boutwell, under orders from Washington, came up to this city Sunday morning. The general charge is a violation of the neutrality laws, but a specific charge has not been made, so that it is not known why the boat was seized. It will probably be libeled by the district attorney to-morrow. It has been reported that when the Dauntless left Ferdinand on Saturday it took on a filibustering expedition off Cumberland sound, but this is also unfounded, as the Dauntless proceeded directly to Brunswick, where she is now.

THE SANTA FE MUDDLE.

Motion to Transfer the Case to the United States Court.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 9 .- Attorneys and officials of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company took decisive action to-day in the receivership proceedings begun last Thursday in the State District Judge Myer. After filing the usual papers' with the clerk of the District Court and taking a transcript of the receivership case FIQUA. O., Nov. 9 .- The corrugating | they returned to Topeka and filed the documents with the United States Circuit Court, together with a motion to transfer the case to the federal court. Charles Johnson, the receiver appointed by Judge Myer, was due to qualify to-day, but the company's lawyers got into court first, and it is stated his bond cannot now be accepted without the consent of the federal judge. At a late hour to-day Charles Blood Smith, an interested bondholder, appeared before United States Judge Foster, at Fort Scott, and secured a temporary injunction against the receiver appointed in the State court. Mr. Smith in his application for an injunction maintains that the alien land law of Kansas does not apply to railroads.
Judge Foster enjoins Mr. Johnson from interfering in any manner with the Santa Fe property pending a hearing at Topeka on In the motion to transfer filed at Oskaloosa this morning the Santa Fe lawyers maintain that the appointing of a receiver by the State courts would be an interfer-ence with the interstate commerce and that the enforcement of the order dividing the company's lands into 160-acre tracts and selling them would destroy the railway and so be unconstitutional, in that it would impair the obligations of a contract be-tween the corporation and the State, as

He borrowed $10,000 from Simon Borg & Co., of New York on the alleged ninety shares of stock and negotiated the scrip with the National Bank of Savannah. This forgery became known and to cover up his loss and pay the bank what had been advanced, Hartridge went to the Germania Bank and borrowed $7,000, giving a draft on Simon Borg & Co. The draft was presented to-day and payment refused.

ANARCHISTS RANT.

Herr Most and Others Denounce Chicago's "Legal Murders."

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.- The Anarchists of New York held a mass meeting to-night, which had been announced on blood-red cards as a commemoration of "The legal murder of August Spies, A. R. Parsons, L. Lingg, A. Fischer and G. Engel," the Chicago Anarchists, punished for the perpetration of the Haymarket dynamiting. The principal speaker was Herr Most, who said that the men who were executed at Chicago were not the first or last to meet that fate in this country. He said they were judiciously murdered and that true Anarchists would not forget them, but would continue to commemorate their murder. "We are not in Russia or Turkey," he said, "for if we were there would have been none of these legal murders." The speaker then briefly reviewed the history of the Chicago riot and incidents leading up to it. He then denounced the jury in the case and declared that anarchy was by no means dead, but that the present peace was but the calm before the storm. August Lott denounced the judge, jury and State's attorney in the case of the Chicago anarchists as murderers. Anarchists, he said, would stand together and fight for the rights of the workingmen. Revolution, he declared, must come. It would be but history repeating itself. The Anarchists would yet revenge the murders, legally committed at Chicago. Anarchism, he said, meant freedom for all.

VESSEL UNFORTUNATE

BATTLE SHIP TEXAS SUNK AT BROOKLYN NAVY-YARD DOCK.

Her Engine Rooms Flooded with Muddy Water-Pumped Out and Floated Last Night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.- The United States battle ship Texas, to which a number of accidents have occurred since she was launched, spent part of to-day alongside the Cob dock in the Broklyn navy yard, submerged about five feet above her water line. This morning the main injection valve on the starboard side near the midship line and about fourteen feet below the water line was shoved in from the force of the water and the engine rooms were quickly flooded with dirty, black, muddy water. The ship soon began to settle and Captain Glass, who is in command of the Texas, called the officers and crew to quarters and did everything possible to minimize the ship's injuries. At the time the accident occurred there was only about two feet of water under the ship, and she soon rested on the muddy bottom. This was at low water, but at high water this afternoon there was between five and six feet of water above the line at the stern and about eighteen inches less at her bow. Wrecking tugs were at once summoned and three of them were soon alongside, pumping the water out of her engine and boiler rooms, while a diver was sent down to ascertain the extent of the damage. Captain Glass, Lieutenant Kelly and Engineer Moore, as well as all the other officers of | clined the offer. the ship, could not be induced to talk about the accident, and all inquiries were referred to Commodore Sicard, commandant of the yard. The Commodore said: "I know very little as yet about the accident. The ship is resting easily on a muddy bottom, and we have no apprehension of any further damage to her. The principal damage was from the dirty water which will temporarily injure the engines and machinery. We cannot estimate the amount of damage nor the exact cause of the accident until the diver makes his report, and possibly not until the ship is raised. She will come up easily as soon as the leak is stopped. Commander West telegraphed at 10:30 to night that the battle ship was affoat at the Brooklyn navy yard and would be pumped out by midnight and docked on Tuesday.

OBITUARY.

Napoleon Sarony, the Well-Known New York Photographer. NEW YORK, Nov. 9 .- Napoleon Sarony, the photographer, died at his home, in this city, to-day. Next to Brady he has probably photographed more celebrities than any other artist in the United States.

Mr. Sarony was seventy-six years of age and a native of Quebec. He began his career as a lithographic artist and his ambitions and talents kept him in the front rank of his profession. In 1858 he went to Europe to study art. Afterwards he took up the business of photographing in Birmingham, England, where he remained until 1866. Then he came to New York and established himself in his new business and met with wonderful success from the very first. Among his earliest sitters were Peter Cooper, William Cullen Bryant and the poet, Longfellow, Charlotte Cushman, Forrest and the elder Booth, Iowa Druggist Fatally Wounded by Rev. E. L. Benedict.

LARRABOO, Ia., Nov. 9.-Rev. E. Benedict to-night shot and fatally injured Harry Mewhirter, a prominent druggist, One day last week Mr. Benedict secured a search warrant and had Mewhirter's drug store searched for liquors. This enraged the druggist and about 4 o'clock this afternoon he followed the minister into the Larraboo Review office. The minister extended his hand to Mewhirter with peaceful intent. The enraged druggist at the same moment dealt Benedict a severe blow on the head with his fist. Friends interfered and the men parted. As Benedict was passing the drug store on his way to the postoffice about 8 o'clock to-night Mewhirter and a man named Jurke jumped upon him and a tussel followed. The minister succeeded in freeing himself and, drawing a revolver, shot Mewhirter, who fell to the ground with a bullet in his breast. To minister was taken into custody. KEANE'S SUCCESSOR. Mgr. Mooney May Become Rector of the Catholic University.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 .- The Post toreceived here yesterday announces that the appointment of Dr. Thomas Conaty as successor to Bishop Keane in the rectorship of the Catholic University is meeting with strong opposition from the Propaganda authorities. It also states that Mgr. Mooney will in all probability be the successful candidate. It is now learned for the first time that Dr. Conaty's policy is similar to Bishop Keane's. He is equally opposed to the Germans, and to the encroachment of the religious orders on the privileges of the urged as the strongest reason for his success. Mgr. Mooney has the powerful pat-ronage of Archbishop Corrigan, he has the friendship of the religious orders and he possesses the confidence of the Germans.

"Dry" Town in Straits. SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 9 .- Bellefontaine, the famous local option town north of here, which was recently, because of a lack of funds, compelled to discharge its police force, is now on the eve of giving up its electric lights. The electric light trus-tees have notified the City Council that they must have at least $3,000 immediately or shut the works down. The trustees are heavily in debt for fuel, etc., and decline to take any further risk for the town. The bitterest personal feeling still prevails, and the wrangle between "wets" and "drys' goes or. Thinks Matthews a Statesman. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal:

It is hardly expected that Republican newspapers will make special effort to commend the acts of Democratic officials or leaders, but they ought to be fair in their statements and comments, and think you are hardly this in your allusions to Governor Matthews in to-day's issue. His administration has certainly been one of the cleanest and best that has ever been given the State, and stamps him as a man of a high order of ability and statesmanship. Suppose he does return to his farm at the end of his gubernatorial term. He would only be exemplifying the dignity and sovereignty of American citizenship in so doing, and would be taking no step downward by again associating with the great agricultural class of our State. The Republican party has done well in selecting the successor of Governor Matthews from among this class, and it is to be hoped that at the end of his ad-ministration Governor Mount will be able to deserve as much gratitude from the people of this commonwealth as they owe and are willing to now accord Governor Mat-

Frankfort, Ind., Nov. 9. NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Volume II of George Ticknor Curtis's work, "Constitutional History of the United States." takes up the history of opinion concerning the nature of the Constitution, and about one-quarter of the ening that paper's powerful intercession in | tire text proper is devoted to this subject The author then discusses the events which preceded the inauguration of the Constitution, and cites the vindication of its framers against the charge of inconsistency. Of particular interest just at present is the chapter on the first revenue law of the Inited States and the discussion of the tariff question, which was such a living issue at the time of the birth of the Republic. Of great interest, too, is the history of the "territorial clause" of the Constitution and the explanation of its purpose. The Missouri Compromise is treated ably and clearly, and much of the general misunderstanding on many points is cleared away. The Dred Scott case receives its share of attention in connection with the discussion of the anti-slavery agitation, and is followed by a treatise on Lincoln's constitutional policy and an analysis of the reconstruction period. This volume completes the work, which covers the period from the declaration of independence to the close of the civil war. It is a valuable contribution to constitutional history. Price, $3 per volume. New York: Harper &

The Journal has very little use for books which try to prove that the plays of William Shakspeare were written by Lord Bacon. It would be as easy to prove that the philosophical works of Bacon were written by Shakspeare, and when the work was ended it would amount to nothing but an ingenious waste of labor. One of the most ingenious works of this class is "Bacon vs. Shakspeare," by Edwin Reid, a new edition of which has just been issued. It is a very exhaustive presentation of the case against Shakspeare, and should be owned by every person who takes an interest in this kind of literature. The work contains much interesting historical matter and shows a great deal of literary re-search. It is inustrated. Cloth, gilt top, $2.50. Boston: The Joseph Knight Company.

Lovers of curious, and especially of Ori ental literature, will be interested in a work recently issued by the Joseph Knight Company, Boston, entitled "Rubaigat of Omar-Khayyam." Omar Khayyam has been called "the astronomer-poet Persia." He was born in the latter half of the eleventh century and died in the first quarter of the twelfth. Oriental scholars regard him as one of the greatest of Persian poets. This is a variorum edition of his works, English, French and German translations being comparatively arranged in accordance with the text of Edward Fitzgerald's version. Besides the text, there are notes, biographies, bibliography and other material, collected and arranged by Nathan H. Dole. The two volumes are published in very attractive form. Cloth, gilt top, $3.50.

Kirk Munroe, a popular writer of juvenile stories, has a new one, "Rick Dale; a Tale of the Northwest Coast." Rick is the son of rich parents, who have always treated him as if he were a hot-house plant. He finally rebels at this, and when he is started off on a tour around the world in the care of a tutor he takes "French leave" at Victoria, Vancouver. There he meets another boy, who has run away from a ship on which he had been apprenticed as cabin boy, and the two start away to explore the world. They have all sorts of thrilling adventures, which are graphically described. All finally turns out well, and Rick gets back home and goes to college. Cloth, $1.25. New York: Harper & Brothers.

"The Green Graves of Balgourie," novel by Jane H. Findlater, is a story of provincial life in a country parish of Scotland. A widow brings up two daughters upon her own plans of education; isolates them entirely, shows them no affection, and gives them no regular education-in fact, deprives them of all happiness save that which they can find in one another. The mutual affection between them (which is intensified by their isolation), their loves, and their widely dissimilar characters, are all admirably portrayed by the author. The characters seem to be drawn from life, and the story, though rather depressing in tone, is suggestive of undeveloped power in the author. Cloth, $1.25. New York: Dodd Mead & Co.

A very remarkable book in its way "Three Children of Galilee." by John Gordon. It is a life of Christ for young people. It is not the first book of its kind, but it is remarkable for clear conception and skillful execution of a distinct plan. The author shows not only thorough knowledge of the Bible account of the life of Jesus. but thorough familiarity with the secular history of the period. He has handled the subject admirably and made a beautiful story. The book is copiously illustrated, some of the illustrations being photogravures, and is issued in handsome style by the Joseph Knight Company, Boston. Or-namental cloth, $1.50.

There has been a romance of commerce, no less than a romance of war. Men have shown as much enterprise and daring in enlarging incomes as in extending the bounds of empire. A work entitled "The Romance of Commerce," by T. Macdonald Oxley, treats the subject in a manner well calculated to interest young readers. Some of the great enterprises and discoveries of commerce are related in a pleasing style, and some notable panics and speculations morrow will say: A cablegram from Rome | are described. The book is full of valuable and curious information for young readers. New York: T. Y. Crowell & Co.

Dodd, Mead & Co. have issued a new illustrated holiday edition of the now celebrated "A Window in Thrums," by James A. Barrie. The work has great originality and merit. This edition is embellished with a large number of fine illustrations of scenes and characters in Kirremuir, now known around the world as "Thrums," The artist has endeavored to take the suggesions in the text and show the region and American hierarhy. Cardinal Satolli is Dr. | the people, their homes outside and inside Conaty's friend and supporter, and this is their kirks, their comings and goings, as truthfully and interestingly as possible The book is brought out in handsome style. Cloth, $2.

Mr. Allen Upward, author of "Prince of Balkistan," has written another historical romance. In "A Crown of Straw" the story of Maximilian, the mad artist king of Bayaria, Ludwig's originally noble nature and poetic tastes, his friendship for Wagner, and other true circumstances have furnished the author with the beginnings of his plot. The story is told in a spirited manner, and the melancholy story of mad-ness, disappointed idealism and intrigue has a strong human interest. Cloth, $1.25. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co.

The Joseph Knight Company, Boston have issued "Napoleon's Addresses," compilation of brief selections from the proclamations, speeches and correspondence of Napoleon Bonaparte, edited by Ida M. Tarbell. Cloth, 75 cents. "A Loyal Little Maid," a pretty story of the revolu-tionary war period for children, by Edith Robinson. Cloth, 50 cents. "Friendly Talks About Marriage." by G. W. Shinn, containing four essays for young men and women on the serious aspect of marriage. Cloth, $1.

> A pretty book for children is "The Wonderful Fairies of the Sun." by Ernest Vincent Wright. It is a highly imaginative description in verse of fairies and fairy life. The different kinds of fairies, goblins, sprites and elves all come in for a share of attention, and the story is told in such a way as to make little folks feel that they have been introduced to a new world. The book is appropriately illustrated. Ornamental cloth, $1.25.

"To live in heaven after we die we must live in heaven before we die. The work of making heaven on earth is the real business of every human being. All else is incidental." Day Dreams. The children played, in the cool morn air, At what they would like to be they posed as lords and as ladies fair, folks of a high degree For life looks fair at the break of day With little of work and much of play, When the heart, when the heart is young.

And then to the twilight chill; The children wearied of high life soon, And quarreled, as children will But they ran away home in the fading light to sob out their wrongs ere they said good-night, And the mother, the mother made all things For their hearts, oh, their hearts were young.

The morning changed to the heat of noon,

And we need not sorrow, as years roll on, If the hopes that have ceased to be But bring us, when passion and youth are gone, To the truth at the Father's knee; Who husheth us up, when our prayers are said, lorgetful of sorrow, in restful bed. l'o awaken again when the night has fled.

Where the heart will be always young. -Lilly Oakley, in Pall Mall Magazine

Blackened His Wife's Eyes. David Brooks was arrested last night for assault and battery on his wife. A telephone message to the police station stated that the man was whipping his wife, and the neighbors were powerless to interfere. The patrol wagon was sent to the house, No. 808 West Washington street, and the man was arrested. Mrs. Brooks was beat-otherwise injured. Robbed Salvation Soldiers. Some boys pried open a window of the house at 383 South Delaware street, last night, and, effecting an entrance, searched the place. The house is occupied by two women, who are members of the Salvation Army, and who were with the army at the time the house was entered. An inventory of their belongings disclosed the fact that one orange only had been taken. The boys
